Extortion Case Postponed.

Alex Currie, who was charged with writing a letter of extortion to H. W. Chambers, was brought before Magistrate Peattie at Olds on Saturday. He was remanded until Wednesday and released on a $500 bail.

The case has again been postponed until Monday.

TOWN OF DIDSBURY.

It has come to my notice that certain persons have been making extravagant and incorrect statements regarding the affairs of the Town of Didsbury. At a time like this such statements can only create misunderstanding and misgivings, and I would urgently request any ratepayer, who desires information about any of the Town affairs to see me or any of the Councillors and the correct information will be gladly given.

I take this opportunity of assuring the ratepayers that their Town is in a very good financial position, in fact one of the best in the Province. During my eleven years of office, my Councils have had as their chief aim the curbing of taxation to a minimum within reason. I would point out, however, that at the present time especially, the chief deterrent to reduction in taxation is the large amount of arrears of taxes outstanding, and I would urge all those in arrears to put forth a special effort to pay. By doing so they will materially assist the whole body of ratepayers.

H. W. CHAMBERS,
Mayor.

Obituary.

Mrs. Clara Marie Foster, wife of M. H. Foster, of Carstairs, died on Sunday at the Red Deer Hospital.

Mrs. Foster was born in Kitchener, Ontario in 1895. She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Pauline, a sister, Mrs. S. Peterson, a brother, Mr. A. A. Letter, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Letter, all of Carstairs.

Farewell Reception.

The Women's Auxilliary of Saint Cyprian's Church gave an informal reception at the home of Mrs. J. H. Lowrie on Thursday evening last in honor of their former minister, Rev. Herbert Clay, who, together with his brother, Rev. Arnold Clay, of Leithbridge, is leaving Alberta to take up duties in England.

There were many expressions of regret at losing the brothers in the church work of the province, and wishes for their future welfare in the Old Land were tendered.

After a splendid supper, served by the ladies, a musical evening was thoroughly enjoyed.

While in Didsbury the Revs. Clay were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Booker. They left Calgary for the east on Sunday and will sail from Quebec on Friday.

Mountain View M.D. Council Meeting

The regular council meeting of Mountain View Municipal District was held in Didsbury on Saturday last. Reeve Flynn occupied the chair. All councillors were present. The road program was discussed and it was decided to gravel the west side of the hill at Spruce Coulee on the Olds town line, considerable donation work being promised on this job. The new roadwork will be curtailed to a minimum, but it was reported that the cost of maintenance of the roads will be higher than for several years past, on account of the wet weather.

A road diversion was ordered at the East half of 35 31-23-4, near the Burns Ranch, diverting the road around the creek.

A notice of one assignment under the Debt Adjustment Act was reported, also one withdrawal.

An application for old-age pension was approved.

Routine business and the passing of bills on posed the balance of the business.

The Didsbury softball clubs have entered a team in the Alberta Softball Playoffs

LOCAL & GENERAL

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCoy were Sylvan Lake visitors on Friday.

Mr. A. R. Kendrick spent the week-end at Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Johnny Johnson is spending a few days' vacation in Calgary.

Mrs. Eva Hopkins, of Los Angeles is visiting her mother, Mrs. Sessmith.

"Dunk" Soe Sang left on Sunday for Calgary, where he will visit with friends and take in the stampede.

Grace Ranton, Lorna Clarke and Jessie McCoy returned Sunday from a week's vacation at Sylvan Lake.

Misses Marjorie and Beatrice Grant, of Calgary are visiting for a couple of weeks with their aunt, Mrs. W. W. Gillrie.

Mr. H. Morgan returned Saturday from Estevan, where he attended the Saskatchewan Postmasters' convention.

There will be the regular Sunday services at Zion Evangelical Church next Sunday morning and evening, and in the afternoon at Westcott.

Messrs. Jack McClell, Jim Kirby, Jim Cathness, Ward Keith, Clint Reiber and Tommy Johnson spent the week-end fishing in the west country.

Dr. and Mrs. Clarke drove to Gull Lake on Sunday. They were accompanied home by Bruce Clarke, Bill Ranton and Gordon Cathness, who were attending the Trail Rangers' Camp at that point.

Mr. M. E. McGaw, of Gern, manager of the Adams Grain Co., of Vancouver, was in town Saturday in the interests of his firm in arranging for direct shipment of grain to Vancouver.

Nick Nowak attended the annual picnic of the Calgary Deaf & Dumb Society at Bonness Park on Saturday. He reports having had a most enjoyable time, but is feeling stiff from the effects of baseball.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bellamy and Miss Alice Pearson left Monday for Los Angeles, where they will visit Mrs. Bellamy's mother and other relatives. Mr. Bellamy wishes to state that all calls for Rawleigh goods will be taken care of at his residence during his absence.

Rallying to support the Navy League of Canada in its work of assisting the widows and orphans of the Mercantile Marine, Didsbury citizens subscribed $10.25 to this worthy cause in a recent campaign here conducted by Fred Cooke, the organizer of the Alberta division.

A sweet time in the mudhole was the experience of the bachelors and bachelorettes pro tem, who staked out on a fishing trip late Saturday night. They got to the Little Red Deer when they met the mudhole and worked away until dawn, finally waking a friendly farmer who lived in his team from the pasture and pulled them out of their trouble. Excepting for that and the scarcity of fish, they had a lovely time.

The World's Way Out

The subject of tariffs and other trade restricting devices has passed, or is rapidly passing, out of the field of partisan politics not only in Canada but throughout the world. The severe economic depression from which all nations have suffered, and from which they still continue to suffer, has taught all people that it is economically impossible to provide work for people everywhere and at the same time erect barriers to prevent them exchanging the products produced by their labor.

The trained economists of all countries, the great bankers and large financial institutions, the executives of transportation systems, and finally the statements of the world struggling with the problems of mounting national debts, ever increasing taxation yet declining revenues, coupled with the necessity of making huge relief expenditures to keep people from starving, now realize that the remedy for this state of affairs lies in encouraging, rather than restricting, trade intercourse throughout the world.

It is no longer a matter of party policy, but of national, yes, international, policy. Regardless of party names and old party traditions and former policies, people everywhere now appreciate the economic truth that it is impossible for every nation to have a so-called favorable balance of trade, that is, selling more to other countries than they buy from them. If one nation sells abroad, some other nation must buy, and when every nation adopts as its national policy the selling of the largest possible volume of its products abroad and buying as little as possible from other nations, the inevitable result is stagnation of trade. This stagnation has been brought about, and the whole world is suffering as a result, and because of this mutual destruction of business millions of men and women are out of employment, while the youth of all countries approaching manhood and womanhood find no openings available in which to exercise their abilities and energies.

The real problem facing the world is how to break down these trade barriers. Inside the walls thus erected along all national boundary lines there have grown up industries of all kinds, many of them artificially forced and developed and protected against similar industries located elsewhere in a natural environment. To remove this protection from these artificially created and stimulated industries, thus confronting them with the competition of the more naturally placed and established industries of the same class means the extinction of the former, resulting in loss and readjustments which no country is prepared to face.

Nevertheless, the world has reached an impasse where such losses and readjustments must take place. In the final analysis, these losses would ultimately be offset by greater gains; there would be individual losses, but great national gains. The world is beginning to realize this, but the problem is how to effect the necessary changes. It is doubtful if it can be brought about by any great international conference or agreement between all nations. And of course it is impossible for one nation alone to throw down its tariff walls while all other nations maintain them. Great Britain stood alone among the nations for many years, with the result that it was made the dumping ground for all other nations. It was Britain's action in finally closing its doors that brought home to the world the suicidal course upon which all had embarked.

These tariff barriers were erected piece-meal over a long period of years; they will have to be torn down by simply reversing the process. In the past one nation erected a tariff wall, then other nations followed suit in self protection. Then nation number one raised its wall still higher, and the others followed suit. Now, in order to get out of the jails they have built for themselves, these nations must begin to lower their walls, brick by brick. Probably the most effective way will be for two nations to enter into trade agreements calling for lower tariffs, or none at all, between them. Trade will begin to flow between such countries. As a result a third nation, and then a fourth will be anxious to enter into the same arrangement.

That this procedure will in all likelihood be followed is indicated by the recent announcement from Lausanne that Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg have respectively agreed to impose any new tariffs, or other trade restrictions, between them and to proceed by mutual reductions of 10 per cent. of their existing tariffs until a defined tariff level is reached. This is the best news this old world has heard for many years. True, these are small nations and not classed as among the foremost trading nations, but it is a hopeful sign.

Now, if that great group of nations constituting the British Commonwealth of Nations will, at the approaching Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, follow this lead and agree among themselves not only to impose no new tariffs, but to remove many of the trade restricting devices at present in vogue, and proceed to enlarge the British preferential features in their tariffs by stated percentages over a term of years until their tariffs against each other are reduced to a minimum, or better still, wiped out and free trade within the Empire established, the whole world will begin to see light and recover, because if the British Empire as a unit adopts such a policy, the rest of the world cannot afford to maintain restrictionist policies.

And it should always be remembered that it is but a short step from economic warfare to actual physical, military, naval and aerial warfare. Friendly trade relations between nations are the surest guarantees of the maintenance of peaceful political relations between them.

Suffered A Severe Attack Of Dysentery

Mr. E. L. D. Moulford, Vernon, B.C., writes: "Last Summer I suffered from a severe attack of dysentery. I tried everything on the market, without getting any relief, until a friend told me to use Dr. Fowler's. Extinct of Wild Strawberry, which I did, and I got immediate relief. Now I am making it a rule to always keep a bottle of it in my medicine chest."
"Wild Strawberry is a sure relief for dysentery, colic and flatulency, but I always use I get the genuine Dr. Fowler's."

Valuations In Contract

By Hamilton B. Hatch, Cavendish Club, Toronto

There are two ways cards must be valued in Contract, i.e. from the defensive trick taking probabilities of the hand, and from the quantitative trick taking probabilities of the hand when played on the offensive.

Primarily it may be said the defensive high card valuation is Aces, Kings, and Queens and their combinations. For defensive purposes barring exceptional cases, ruffing tricks and small cards of long suits cannot be considered.

As shown in previous articles the chief essential of an opening bid is the presence of three or four high cards (called honor tricks or quick tricks) as a minimum, in the opening bidder's hand. These high cards are ones which the opening bidder thinks, with, under normal distribution of the other cards in the other hands, take from two to three tricks against any bid the opponents may make. That, therefore, with an average hand in the hand of the partner of the opening bidder, the opponents cannot win and make game. It is on this premise that the theory of the opening bid is founded.

In valuing high cards defensively the writer only figures first and second round high cards, that is Aces and Kings and their combinations. No definite defensive value is given to third round tricks. Their value is considered indeterminate and is called "plus" value. A half a trick is a high card which will take a whole trick at the time the following table practically covers all combinations to which definite defensive trick taking probabilities can be given.

One Half a Trick—Any King N.
One Trick—Any Ace, any King Queen, any King Jack Small, any King Small, and Queen Small in different suits.

One and One Half Trick—Any Ace Queen, any King Jack.
One Half a Trick—Any King Small.

One Trick—Any Ace, any King Queen, any King Jack Small, any King Small and Queen Small in different suits.

One and One Half Trick—Any Ace Queen, any King Jack Ten, any Ace King Ten.

Two Tricks—Any Ace King, any All other high cards, queens, jacks, singleton kings etc., are simply included under the valuation "plus."

Quantitative trick taking valuation is a combination of the two systems, six cards of the partnership and comprises three kinds of cards that will take tricks i.e. high cards and their combinations—2nd small cards of long suits—3rd small trumps that can be used for ruffing. The values under two and three are called distributional values.

Of the tables arranged for valuing cards quantitatively, the table sponsored by Ely Culbertson is probably the most complete and most accurate. It must be remembered, however, that distributional valuations are only to be relied upon up to a maximum of ten tricks for the combined hands. Beyond ten tricks distributional valuations, as a rule must be extremely well fortified with high card tricks.

In no trump declarations, quantitative valuations must, of necessity, cover only the first two kinds of tricks, as in no trump there can be no ruffing tricks. This is the fundamental reason why fewer number of tricks are required to go game in no trump than in a suit declaration. Therefore it follows logically that those hands which contain little chance for the making of ruffing tricks should whenever possible, be played in no trump as the chances of the no trump game recommends it. This being so, contract players who hold a balanced hand (a hand which contains no void or singleton should endeavor whenever possible, to play in the balanced hand in no trump, provided the partner's hand is not unbalanced.

The table given below, for use in valuing hands quantitatively is taken from the Culbertson with only minor variations.

Increase in Liquor Exports

An increase of more than 140,000 gallons in the export of whiskey from Canada to other countries during May is noted in a report issued by the Department of National Revenue. The total exported in May last year was 95,533 gallons, and last month the volume had risen to 236,504 gallons. Practically all of the increase is accounted for in the exports to the French possessions of St. Pierre and Miquelon.

Recipe For Iced Tea

Tells How To Prepare This Delectable Summer Drink

Use 6 heaping teaspoons of "SALADAY" Black Tea, brew tea in one pint of freshly boiled water for six minutes, strain, and pour liquid into a quart container. While hot, add one and a half cups of granulated sugar and juice of 2 lemons. Then shake or stir contents well until sugar is fully dissolved. Fill container with ice. DO NOT ALLOW TEA TO COOL. BEFORE ADDING THE COLD WATER, otherwise, liquid will become cloudy. This is now ready to serve in tall glasses with chipped ice or cubes of ice added. A slice of lemon may also be added if desired. This recipe will make two quarts of iced tea, or 7 tall glasses.

Surgeon Says United States Intelligence Tests For Immigrants Are In Need Of Revision

Intelligence tests now available must be revised or the methods of securing changed before they are satisfactory for testing immigrants, it appears from a report of Dr. Lawrence Kolb, senior surgeon of the U.S. Public Health Service, before the meeting of the American Association for the Study of the Feeble-minded.

The law now provides that no mental defectives shall be admitted to this country. But although psychologists have devised special tests which do not require the use of language, the scores on these tests do not give a true picture of the mental ability of the person tested. Dr. Kolb found. His conclusion is based on the results of tests given to 5,000 persons desiring to enter the United States from Europe.

Men do conspicuously better on these non-verbal, or performance tests than do women, although there is no reason to suppose that men are more intelligent than the women. Children able to read and write do the tests as well as their illiterate mothers, and, because of the difference in age attain a higher intelligence quotient which is mental age divided by actual age. Young adults do better than older adults. And the difference between the illiterates and those who can read is very high.

These facts seem to indicate that ability on the tests depends to some extent at least upon the stimulating character of the environment and upon the education as well as upon innate capacity which they are supposed to measure. Dr. Kolb believes.

The average of the intelligence quotients of the illiterate women was below 50, which would place half of them in the classification psychologists call "imbecile" or even lower, but this rating is misleading, Dr. Kolb points out.

"The scores doubtless show very poor native intelligence, but they obviously did not mean all that they say. Fifty per cent. of these women are not imbeciles, or even feeble-minded, by any standard standards."

The results for the men were also misleading, he found. Five per cent. of the men from southern Italy received a rating which showed them to have minds developed only to the level of an 8-year-old child, yet all had been able to support themselves and live within the law. It is known that some, with this grade of intelligence, come here, save money and send back home for their relatives.

Pedestrian's Rights

Organization Contemplated For the Protection Of Those Who Walk
"The Pedestrians' Rights Association" is the latest organization contemplated for the protection of pedestrians on highways and in the public streets. Letters of incorporation have been applied for by a firm of Ottawa barristers.

Protection of pedestrians from traffic dangers, promotion of publicity and instruction among the general public on such matters, the improvement of existing laws and their enforcement, and the education of citizens in reporting infractions of traffic laws are among the objects of the proposed association.

Turkish Public Baths Deprived Of Water

CITIZENS OF OURFA RESENT ACTION OF MAYOR OVER TAXES

Fifteen thousand citizens of Ourfa are crying for a bath. A fight between the town government and the public bath owners over taxes led the mayor to cut off the water supply at all the bath houses. Thus exist only in a few wealthy homes, so practically the whole population depends on the public pools for the cleanliness which the Koran imposes on every good Moslem.

The women of Ourfa are particularly loud in their protests, as bath-day is the chief social event of their lives. They make a whole day of it, carrying their lunch along, and spending hours steaming themselves, reclining in the cooling rooms, eating nuts, drinking coffee and gossiping.

STILL ANOTHER NEW AND LOVELY DRESS THAT'S SUITED FOR TOWN, AFTERNOONS OR RESORT

Here's one of the smartest and most becoming models Paris has sent us this season. The becoming neckline, so cool and lovely, suits miss or matron.

It is smart carried out as its inspirator in a sheer crepe print topped by plain sheer crepe. It meets many daytime needs. It is a special appeal for the business woman.

Style No. 454 is designed for sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Printed and plain crepe silk is conservatively smart.

For real summery wear, a sheer batiste in gay polka-dots, a sheer linen tweed and tubular silks are delectably chic and practical.

Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 20-inch material with 1 1/2 yards of 20-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Newest Northern Ontario Seaport

MOOSEWEE, ON JAMES BAY, PLANS FOR SETTLEMENT OF 5,000 PEOPLE

The day before yesterday, figuratively speaking, the Hudson Bay region was ultima Thule as far as it concerned the vacation traveler. Now a line of steel in Manitoba follows the Nelson River for many miles then turns north to the port of Churchill. An even more recent penetration is the extension of the Transcanadian and Northern Ontario Railway through northern Ontario to the old fur-traders' rendezvous at Moose Factory. Northwards from Cochrane the railway line follows the Abitibi River to the Moose and then turns eastward to James Bay. Here will be located the newest seaport of northern Ontario. Moosewée, where plans for a settlement of 5,000 people are under way.

A survey party is now laying out the townsite in accordance with the accepted plans which provide for schools, hotel, public buildings, hospital and sports field. Water for Moosewée will be supplied from Stone Creek. The 300 new town will lie on the northern side of the Moose River, and will stretch for two and a half miles along the shore. The townsite will be the terminal of the line and will serve as a base for development along the coast of Hudson Bay such as fishing operations, the fur-trade and the pulp industry.

For years canoeists journeying down the Abitibi, Missinibi or Mattagami Rivers to the Moose River and thence to the Bay, were faced with the prospect of an arduous return trip up one of these rivers. Now the back-breaking tracking and polling of canoes up the rapids, and the labour of carrying dunnage bags and outfit over the portages has been rendered unnecessary. No longer need the pleasures of these cruises be marred by the thought of a laborious return—the "Iron Horse" has solved the difficulty.

The extension of this Ontario government owned railway has opened up some very attractive new fishing waters. Many of the smaller streams in this new section abound with brook trout and in some of the larger streams even sturgeon may be hooked.

FORMER GERMAN CROWN PRINCE MAY SUCCEED VON HINDENBURG

ADOLF HITLER. PRESIDENT PAUL VON HINDENBURG.

What is regarded by the masses in Germany as the first step towards the restoration of the monarchy in the Fatherland will take place on October 2, it rumors persistently gaining ground in Berlin are to be believed. The report, the source of which is one of the most important newspapers in the chain owned by Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, opponent of Von Hindenburg in the recent Presidential election and head of the Nationalist Party, is to the effect that President Paul von Hindenburg intends to retire on his 85th birthday and urge that he be succeeded by former Crown Prince Wilhelm. Although the rumors are vigorously denied in governmental circles, political observers point out that there had been a steady growth of Junkerism in the New Republic since Dr. Heinrich Brüning, recently ousted Chancellor, came into power. The appointment of Franz von Papen to succeed Brüning, they say, is further evidence of that trend.

Canadian Institute Of International Affairs

Establishment Of A Permanent Office To Be Located In Toronto

Appointment of a permanent secretary and establishment of a permanent office, to be located in Toronto, was announced by the executive committee of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, through Hon. N. W. Rowell, president of the Institute.

Escoffier Reid, of Toronto, is appointed permanent secretary. Mr. Reid is a graduate of Toronto University (Trinity College) and a Rhodes scholar, taking his work at Christ Church, Oxford. Study of Imperial and international affairs is the object of the institute.

Branches are now located in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver.

J. W. Dafoe, of Winnipeg is a vice-president.

Strange Bird Bath

Imprint Of Dinosaur's Foot Serves Feathered Tribe At Ottawa

Ottawa may claim to have the most unique bird bath in Canada. One of the large dinosaur footprints found at Peace River, collected for the National Museum of Canada, has been duplicated in cement. It has a length of more than two feet and a depth of five or six inches, and has been placed in the museum grounds.

The birds of the capital now may enjoy the privilege of a morning dip in the unique bird bath moulded from the footprint of a dinosaur made in the mud of a shallow western lake long before the Rocky Mountains arose above the plains.

Nearly one-third of the adult male population of France today consist of bachelors.

Representatives of the governments of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg have reciprocally agreed not to impose any new tariffs and to proceed by annual reduction of 10 per cent. until a defined tariff level is reached.

They further undertake not to impose between themselves any new measure of restriction on imports or exports—such as quotas—except in special determined cases. Any other state will be entitled to adhere to the convention on a footing of equality with the signatory states.

It is preceded by a preamble in which the contracting states declare they are "persuaded that progressive realization of greater freedom of trade is one of the essential conditions for world prosperity." They further declare they "are desirous of undertaking in this sense concerted action in which all states will be entitled to participate, thus contributing to the re-establishment of the general economic situation."

The necessity of some action towards restoring the stability of the monetary system and of re-establishing international credit with removal or amelioration of the trade restrictive measures that have appeared in late years, was urged in a resolution adopted by the three countries and Denmark, Sweden, and Norway, of which the agreement is the outcome.

International Friendship

Dedication Of Waterson-Glacier Peace Park

Another link has been added to the chain of international friendship between Canada and United States.

In the midst of border mountains and lakes, representatives of both countries extended international greetings as they dedicated the Waterson-Glacier Peace Park to 117 years of goodwill between the two nations.

Sir Charles Mander, Bart., of Wolverhampton, England, director and past president of Rotary in Great Britain, presided at the colorful ceremony attended by representatives of political and clerical life and hundreds of Rotary international members who sponsored the project.

Messages from Prime Minister Bennett and President Hoover were read by Lieutenant-Governor Walsh of Alberta and Governor John E. Erickson of Montana. Premier J. E. Brownlee headed a group of Alberta representatives, including Senator W. A. Buchanan.

Bands and church choirs from Montana attended.

Origin Of Familiar Term

Superstition Of Early Saxons Gave Us "Mares Nest"

Early Saxons believed in the existence of a queer monster named Mara, which crouched on the chest of sleepers (hence the term nightmare). This beast was supposed to live in a nest lined with gold. Credulous people used to look for Mara's nest hoping to discover the treasure. From this legend, any supposed great discovery which led to nothing, has become known as Mara's, or a mare's nest.

The Great Are Not Always Wise

Great Institutions as Susceptible To Poor Judgment as Humble Citizens

An editorial in a recent issue of the Toronto Star Weekly dealt with some surprise on the fact that great statesmen and great bankers do not seem to know much more about the gold standard, the depression and such matters than the ordinary men who meet in the street and talk at random, offering this and that view, but really getting nowhere as a result of the aimless discussions.

Take a case: The average citizen who paid a big price for stocks or shares to a high-pressure salesman, only to find later on that they were worthless, beats his right fist into the palm of his left hand and pronounces himself a fool. Yet the foremost leaders in finance make the same kind of mistake and on a huge scale. A group of eminent American bankers, led by Lee, Higsonson & Co. loaned $15,000,000, without any collateral, to the late Ivar Kreuger, simply on his reputation as a sagacious businessman. This money was loaned in the belief that Kreuger had concessions from three European governments, giving him a monopoly in the manufacture. He did not give these bankers any information which they could verify. He spoke of the three governments as X, Y and Z. They did not hurt his feelings by asking him to be more explicit, but handed him the fifteen million dollars and considered it as a fine stroke of business. Now they are wondering if they can get anything back at all, and know that it is highly improbable.

These eminent bankers were trimmed just as simple folks are "done" by high-pressure salesmen.

What Wheat Crop Means To Canada

A good wheat yield which moved freely to world markets would be a decided asset to Canadian railways, Canadian steamships, and to a score of supply companies which get orders when transportation organizations are making both ends meet. Success on the part of industry, which might come from free movements of wheat, even if producers do not get a high return, tends to improve sources of taxation and thus lightens the individual burden. It provides a stronger background against which governments and municipalities can float bond issues; it increases spending power through added employment, and generally speeds up the wheels of national activity. Canada's early future is accordingly largely wrapped up in wheat. If there is a good crop the nation must benefit; if there is a good crop with higher prices the nation and individual must benefit still more.

Big Sports Day, Oids, July 20th

July 20th is going to be a big day in Oids, when the Agricultural Society holds a sports day in conjunction with the Calf Club Competition.

Oids' Calf Club has risen to be the highest in the Dominion, and this year there will be about 100 calves competing. The boys and girls are very keen about this year's contest, as there is over $300 in cash to be awarded, besides two silver trophies and other prizes. It will be the best competition ever held. H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, S. G. Carlyle, Superintendent of Fairs, and George Black, Director of Calf Clubs, are all expected to attend.

Sports will comprise a baseball tournament which Didsbury, Oids, Betchon and Hainstock are participants, while Bowden Girls will clash with the Oids Fair Sex in softball. Hainstock and Oids will fight for supremacy in girls' basketball, and Eagle Hill and Bowden will battle to see who is best at football. Foot races for the boys and girls will be held, also some for the grownups too.

A special attraction for the kiddies will be the big merry-go-round and Ferris wheel operated by the Kapel All-Canadian Shows, who are also bringing a colorful midway to entertain the crowd.

Starting at 5 p.m., Howie Craig is going to put on a six ranging talkie comedy at the Arena, featuring Eddie Quillan in "The Big Shot." You'll laugh so much that Old Man Depression will be entirely forgotten. At 7 p.m. the Mayfair Theatre will present James Dunn and Sally Eilers in "Bad Girl." You'll like it, too.

The final windup of the day will be the big dance at the Arena at 10 p.m., when "Dick's Dicky Birds" will make everyone step to the latest hits. Make it a point to be there and meet all your friends.

It's a full day, something doing all the time, so come and make merry.

How It Was Thirty Years Ago.

The centre pier of the big iron bridge over the Bow River, three miles east of Calgary, is split. The twin bridges over the Bow between Calgary and Cochrane are down and there is a half-mile washout at Shaganappi point. There are heavy washouts between Calgary and Oids on the C. & E. north, and also on the line south, so that Calgary is shut off from the outside world. The iron bridges to the west of that city are still standing. Passengers are being transferred at the washouts. C.P.R. officials do not hope to have communication opened east or west from Calgary for three days and can give no idea when the north and south line will be open. There is a bad washout on the C. & E. near Didsbury.

N. S. F. Cheques Now Jail Count

Writers of N.S.F. cheques may now face a charge of false pretences and a possible jail term on conviction, according to an amendment that the Criminal Code of Canada received recently. The new regulations are now in effect and practically place an N.S.F. cheque in the same category as a "no account" cheque and means a possible jail term on conviction.

The new amendment reads: "In any prosecution under this section, (dealing with cheques without funds) if it be shown that anything capable of being stolen was obtained by the accused by means of a cheque, which, when presented for payment within a reasonable time, was dishonored on the ground that there were no funds, or insufficient funds on deposit in the bank to the credit of the accused, it shall be presumed that such a thing was obtained with fraudulent intent by a false pretence unless it be established to the satisfaction of the court that when the accused issued such a cheque he had reasonable grounds for believing that it would be honored if presented for payment within a reasonable time after it was issued."

For every dollar spent on unemployment relief works, 47 cents was paid for labor. The cost of Dominion administration was less than one-tenth of one per cent. These were some of the figures submitted in a statement issued by the Department of Labor. It was in reply to attacks made against the administration of unemployment relief funds.

Canada and Britain are talking together today, direct to one another over the Atlantic without dependence on American help. Replenish Western Lakes.

Mr. J. E. Martin, of the Government Fish Hatcheries, accompanied by Mr. J. H. Kemp, of Oids, trucked out to the west country the first of last week 80,000 eggling young Loch Leven trout for the purpose of stocking the western lakes and streams.

The trip out was "navigated" with difficulty, owing to the soaked roads, and on arrival in the far west they were met by Garfield Thompson, who assisted in the task of liberating the fish, which, in future years will provide Alberta anglers with food and thrills. Mr. Kemp made the trip in the interests of the Alberta Fish & Game Assn., but had roads foiled his calculations as he was two days overdue on his return. — Oids Gazette.

Where Milk Is Scarce

Settlement in Northern Manitoba Has Only One Cow

Although the government of Manitoba may take over the milk industry of the Province and operate it as a public utility, it is not expected there will be any change in the price of milk in the little settlement of Tukwilong, where the Hudson Bay Railway has a division point. The milk industry there is a monopoly. One cow, Betsy Jane, is the only cow so far able to survive in that part of the country, whose winter elements are not propitious to the dairy industry.

New Method Of Farm Management

Colonization Finance Corporation Adds To Staff Of Zone Managers

The recent appointment of a staff of six zone farm managers by the Colonization Finance Corporation of Canada Limited, to assist farmers to maintain themselves in these trying times on their farms and to improve their condition, marks the latest and one of the most practical forms of constructive efforts in agriculture.

The Colonization Finance Corporation was set up by a number of the leading insurance and trust companies of Canada for the purpose of meeting the situation caused by the general agricultural depression. C. M. Bowman, Waterloo, Ont., is president; J. F. Weston, Toronto, and Col. J. S. Dennis, vice-president; and T. O. F. Heizer, manager.

For several years this body has carried on its work in the province of Manitoba to the mutual advantage of farmer and interested mortgage company. There are six zones in Manitoba. So quietly has this valuable service been performed that few outside the persons immediately concerned had any knowledge of it. The excellence of the work and the sincerity of the effort in co-operation is shown in the way the farmers are responding to it. This year the area of farming land coming under the zone farm management is the most trebled, making necessary the new appointments.

Six new men will enter the field, five for Saskatchewan and one for Manitoba. They are: H. B. Sommerfeld, Yorkton, Sask.; O. S. Longman, Indian Head, Sask.; Joe B. Day, Oxbow, Sask.; Oscar Winkler, Canora, Sask.; William Harkness, Weyburn, Sask.; Kenneth D. McLean, Birtle, Man.

The work of these men, along with that of the zone manager already appointed, come under the direction of the chief farm manager of the Corporation, Frank W. Longman, of Winnipeg, whose record in farm management, compels confidence in his ability and judgment.

The principle underlying this new financial development is not a new one. It is co-operation for mutual benefit. That it is a mutual benefit is shown in the readiness of the farmer to avail himself of the services of the zone managers.

The new feature of this service is the fact that a financial corporation is not only backing the land on which it made the loan, but it is also backing the man to whom it made the loan, and his ability to fulfill his obligations.

The Colonization Finance Corporation found that a knowledge of the psychology of discouragement. When a farmer fell down in his regular pay, he was in a better position to take advantage of the upward turn.

The Colonization Finance Corporation has been able to secure the services of men of the highest practical and academic standing for the work of advising methods of management of the farms included in the various zones. The men already in the field have won their worth. In the 10 years operation in Manitoba the zone farm management plan has advanced beyond the period of experiment. This year 300,000 acres have come under farm management, a large portion of which is in Saskatchewan. Together the Corporation has 424,500 acres under its supervision, consisting largely of mortgages in arrears, sale agreements and a small percentage of real estate.

Professor H. B. Sommerfeld, Yorkton, Saskatchewan.

Prof. H. B. Sommerfeld, who has just received an appointment to the zone of which Yorkton, Sask., is the centre, was enthusiastically welcomed to his new field by the Board of Trade of that city, at a recent meeting held in his honor.

Like Mr. Reinhold, Prof. Sommerfeld has an exceptional academic standing as well as a practical experience which puts him in a class with the best farmers. He is on leave from the Saskatchewan district. This was now to fulfill the work of farm management for the important Saskatchewan district around Yorkton.

Prof. Sommerfeld was born on a Wisconsin farm, the son of the late B. Sommerfeld, breeder of purebred Holstein cattle, who migrated to Saskatchewan with his family and took up a three-quarter section of raw land in the Saskatchewan district. This was finally developed into a dairy farm which was a greater production competition conducted in Saskatchewan. Wheat production on the farm reached an average of 20 bushels per acre for the 11 years that young Sommerfeld worked it.

During this same period Professor Sommerfeld joined the pioneer class in Agriculture at the University of Saskatchewan, was graduated from that institution with the degree of B.S.A. He followed this with a year at the University of Wisconsin from which he received the degree Master of Science in 1922.

Seven years as professor of animal husbandry and farm manager at Manitoba Agricultural College followed.

After attending the University of Minnesota, taking animal husbandry as a major, and agricultural economics and farm management as minor courses, he just recently received his degree of Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota.

Prof. Sommerfeld has been in frequent requisition as judge of livestock at fairs and exhibitions, including Brandon, Regina and Saskatoon. He also has trained stock judging teams in Manitoba Agricultural College, which have won four first places in six years, one of which was at the Toronto Royal Fair, in 1929, when his team won over the Ontario Agricultural College team. Prof. Sommerfeld has done work for the Agricultural Extension Departments of both Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

O. S. Longman, Indian Head, Sask. O. S. Longman, who takes over the management of the Indian Head, Sask., zone, is a Western Canadian. He was born near Canby, Sask., grew up in the Deloraine, Man., district. He is a graduate of Manitoba Agricultural College, and has been instructor in agricultural mechanics, feed husbandry and other farm subjects at agriculture schools at Canby, Deloraine and Indian Head. In 1920 he was appointed principal of the School of Agriculture at Raymond, Alberta, and in this capacity supervised irrigation demonstrations and extension services among the farmers.

For some time Mr. Longman has been on the staff of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, and in this connection conducted special investigations into conditions in the irrigated and drought stricken areas of that province. His report on the dry areas resulted in the passing of the Hery Truck Area Act by the Alberta Legislature. He has also made a study of the best irrigation system, a survey looking to the establishment of a sugar beet industry in Southern Alberta, control of noxious weeds, use of commercial fertilizers, breeding and management of livestock.

Mr. Longman's appointment to the staff of the Colonization Finance Corporation was felt as a distinct loss by the farmers of Alberta and was deeply regretted by the residents of Indian and vicinity.

Joe B. Day, Oxbow, Sask. Joe B. Day, another graduate of Manitoba Agricultural College under appointment as farm manager for the Colonization Finance Corporation. His headquarters are Oxbow, Sask. Mr. Day also has a degree of M.Sc. from the University of Minnesota. Agricultural economics are a specialty.

A native of Iowa, Mr. Day's family settled in the Wilcox district more than thirty years ago. Mr. Day had management of his own home farm for five years when he specialized in seed grain.

The Day farm was the one on which the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company carried out an extensive experiment with fertilizers. Outside his own farm interests, Mr. Day has been connected with creameries and cow testing corporations. He also was with the Manitoba Wheat Pool.

While he was studying for his M.Sc. he was field and stock manager for a tax survey of Minnesota. His ability brought him the offer of a position as senior agricultural representative in that state, but he refused, preferring to return to Saskatchewan.

Oscar Winkler, Canora, Sask. As manager for the Canora zone, the Colonization Finance Corporation obtained the services of Oscar Winkler, a recent graduate of the Manitoba Agricultural College.

Mr. Winkler speaks a number of languages which will enable him to work in the Canora district, many of whom are of European birth or extraction. Already he has made his place in that district and his coming has been greatly appreciated by the farmers.

Mr. Winkler has been manager of a large sugar beet farm and assisted in and settlement project before coming to Canora. Since his coming he has managed a large farm at Margot, Sask. Two years ago he entered Manitoba Agricultural College from which institution he was graduated this year with the degree of B.S.A. During last summer he did extension work for the Manitoba Department of Agriculture in southeastern Manitoba with headquarters at Steinbach, Man.

William Harkness, Weyburn, Sask. William Harkness, who is now in charge of the Colonization Finance Corporation zone at Weyburn, Sask., was born and raised on a farm in Scotland. Migrating to Canada he managed farms at Hartney, Poplar Point and Glenora, Man. He also is a graduate of Manitoba Agricultural College.

Enlisting in the 43rd Battalion, Mr. Harkness served overseas until 1919. On his return to Canada he joined the Soldiers' Settlement Board as field supervisor and inspector, holding this position until 1920. While with the S.S.B. Mr. Harkness was supervisor in Southern Saskatchewan, in Current, Oxbow and Regina. He applied and purchased land, stock and equipment. In addition to his work among the soldier settlers he carried out special work in connection with the settlement of British families in his area. A valuable period of service with a private mortgage company preceded his appointment with the C.F.C.

Kenneth D. McLean, Birtle, Man. Kenneth D. McLean, one of the younger farm managers of the Colonization Finance Corporation, has been appointed assistant in the Brandon and Mossburn zones of management. He is a Manitoba man, born in the Reston district, where his father is a successful farmer.

He has done survey work in economics for the Pioneer Problem Committee, chiefly in the Swan River district, and won the Co-Operative Marketing Board scholarship for the year 1929-30 in economics in second and third years.

Stainless Steel Secret

Story Of Discovery Will Be Revealed In 1936

The story of the discovery of stainless steel, a secret for several years, is not to be told for another three decades. Harry Brearley, discoverer of the process, has given the "cutlers' company" of Sheffield a sealed envelope, admonishing the society not to open it until the cutlers' feast of 1960. The envelope contains his story of the discovery.

Total Eclipse Of the Sun

Begins in Hudson Bay Area and Will Be Visible In Quebec

In addition to the Imperial Economic Conference, there will be another event in Eastern Canada this summer which will draw the attention of the general public. This will be the total eclipse of the sun on August 31st. The eclipse will be visible from a zone running through the Province of Quebec and skirting the City of Montreal.

Though usually total eclipses of the sun occur almost every year, the Director of the Canadian Government Observatory points out their occurrence as total at or near any specified locality is a somewhat rare phenomenon. The last one to be visible as total in Canada was on January 24, 1925, on which occasion the path of totality crossed the home farm for five years when he specialized in seed grain.

For the 1933 eclipse the central line of the path of totality begins in the Arctic region, sweeping down across Hudson Bay and skirting the eastern shore of James Bay; it crosses the St. Lawrence near Muskegon and Pierreville, Que., some fifty miles east of Montreal, crosses the international boundary a few miles east of Rock Island and Verdon, Vermont, passing into the Atlantic Ocean in the vicinity of Portland, Maine. The width of the shadow zone in southern Quebec is approximately 100 miles; the western edge passes through Montreal and near Boston, Mass., the eastern edge will be about 25 miles to the east of Three Rivers, Que.

The duration of totality on the central line is about 100 seconds, diminishing to zero at the eastern and western limits. The shadow travels at an average speed of about half a mile per second, traversing the distance of roughly 700 miles from James Bay to the coast in a little over 20 minutes; it crosses the River St. Lawrence at 3:24 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, the international boundary at 3:27, and leaves the coast of Maine at 3:31. The direction of the sun at this time is about 20 degrees south of west and the altitude about 30 degrees.

Several parties of scientists from other countries are coming to observe the eclipse and Montreal will be one of the principal points where these parties will concentrate in order to take advantage of the facilities and co-operation of McGill University.

Case Puzzles Doctors

Bones Of Eleven-Year-Old Girl Break With Slight Strain

Physicians are puzzled over the case of Mary Mestdagh, Homer, Mich., who has never been in a serious accident yet, has broken nearly every bone in her body.

The 11-year-old girl was under treatment in a Chicago hospital by Dr. Frederick Harvey, of Northwestern University. She was suffering from a broken arm caused by a slight strain.

The physician said X-rays revealed nearly every large bone in her body had been broken at least once.

"The examination showed that the bone structure is so thin and brittle," said the physician, "that the slightest stress causes a fracture. She has had 35 to 40 fractures."

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

—BY—
MARGARET FIEDLER

"The Splendid Play," The Herald Of The Arts
Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

"So it does—theoretically. Only from a practical and purely material point of view, everything else sinks into insignificance beside the fact that I am literally starving. Oh!" joyfully catching sight of Jean and Tormarin making their way up the room—"Here they are at last! Collect our waiter, Nick, and let's begin!"

Neither of the late comers appeared in the least embarrassed by the tardiness of their arrival, and they responded to tentative enquiries concerning their afternoon's amusement with a disappointing lack of self-consciousness.

Lady Anne experienced an inward quail of misgiving. There seemed too calm and tranquil a camaraderie between the two to please her altogether. It was as though the last few days had brought about a silent understanding between them—a wordless compact.

She picked up the menu and assumed an absorption in its contents which was far from feigning.

"What are we all going to eat?" she asked. "I think we must hurry a little, or we shall be late for the play. There I shall lose the exquisite thrill of seeing the curtain go up."

Tormarin looked entertained.

"Does it still thrill you, you abundant youthful person?"

"Of course it does. I always consider that the quality of the thrill produced by the rise of the curtain is the measure of one's capacity for enjoyment. When it no longer thrills me, I shall know that I am getting old and bored, and that I only go to the theatre to kill time and because everyone else goes."

Dinner proceeded leisurely in spite of Lady Anne's admonition that they should hurry, and presently Nick, who had glanced across the room once or twice as though secretly amused, remarked contentedly:

"My Lucretia Borgia lady is talking quite uncommon interest in someone of our party. I'm afraid I can't flatter myself that she's lost her heart to me, as I've only observed this development since Jean and Blaise joined us. Blaise, I believe it's you who have won her devoted—if, probably, somewhat wilted—affections."

"My Lucretia Borgia lady? Which is she?" enquired Jean.

"You can't see her, because you are sitting with your back to her," replied Nick importantly. "And it isn't manners to screw your head round in a public restaurant—even although the modern reformation of an unpleasantly vengeful lady may be sitting just behind you. But if you'll look into that glass opposite you—on the right side of it—you'll see who I mean. She's quite unmistakable."

Jean tilted her head a little and peered slantwise into the mirror which reflected it. It was precisely at the same moment that Nick's "Lucretia Borgia lady" looked up for a second time from her peche Melba, and Jean found herself gazing straight into the dense darkness of the eyes of Madame de Varigny.

"Why—why?" she stammered in astonishment. "It is the Countess de Varigny?" She turned to Lady Anne, adding explanatorily: "You remember, madonna, I told you about her? She chaperoned me at Montaviva after Glynn had departed."

The recognition had been mutual. Madame de Varigny had half-turned from her seat and was poised in an attitude of expectancy, smiling and gesturing with expressive hands an invitation to Jean to join her.

"I'll go across and speak to her," said Jean, not quite imagining what she is doing in London.

"I suppose you, too, met this rather splendid-looking personage at Montaviva?" enquired Nick of his brother, as Jean quitted the table.

Tormarin shook his head.

"I never spoke to her. I saw her once, on the night of a fancy-dress ball at the hotel, arrayed as Cleopatra."

"She'd look the part all right," commented Nick. "She gives me the impression of being one of those angelized and deified English women—the latter favour preponderating. I should rather feel the desirability of emulating Agur in any dealings I had with her, Good Lord!"—with a lively accession of interest—"Jean's living proof of the fact that she really is a beautiful person, isn't she? Like a sort of Eastern empress."

"Madame de Varigny wishes to be presented to you, Lady Anne," said Jean, and proceeded to effect introductions all round.

"I remember seeing you with Moxa Peterson at Montaviva," remarked the Countess, as she shook hands with Blaise, her dark eyes resting on him curiously.

"Join us and finish your dinner at our table," suggested Lady Anne hospitably.

But Madame de Varigny protested volubly that she had already finished her meal, though she would sit and talk with them a little if it was agreeable. It was quite agreeable.

"It could be more charming than she was when she chatted, and on this occasion she elected to make herself about as altogether charming as it is possible for a woman to be, entirely conquering the hearts of Lady Anne and Nick. Her simple, childlike warmth, heartlessness of manner was in such almost ludicrous contrast to her majestic, dark-browed type of beauty that it took them completely by storm."

"This is only just a flying visit that I pay to England," she explained excitedly. "It is a great good fortune that I should have chanced to encounter ma chere Moxa Peterson."

"It's certainly an odd chance brought you to the same hotel," agreed Nick.

"Is it not?"—delightfully. "And, from the frank wonder and satisfaction she evinced at the coincidence, no one could possibly have surmised that the sole cause and origin of her 'flying visit' was a short paragraph contained in the

TOO FAT AT 22

Lost 19 lbs.—And Backache

"I am 22 years of age, and I weighed 103 lbs. I had pains in the back and head. I didn't eat about anything. When my friends told me I was too fat, I was just taking that. But since I tried Kruschen's, I have lost 19 lbs. and feel a different woman. I am very much pleased to see what a wonderful medicine Kruschen's is."—Mrs. P.

"The condition which caused this woman to put on weight was also the cause of her backache and headache. The whole trouble was due to the internal organs failing to perform their functions properly—due to the food that was not properly digested."

The six stars of Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly. They do this by the use of the watery and saline substances that enter the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes, but surely. The backache and headache disappear. You feel wonderfully healthy, vigorous, and energetic—more so than ever before in your life."

"Morning Post," a copy of which by her express order had been delivered daily at the hotel, was now sent her return thither from the Swiss Alps. The paragraph referred simply to the arrival at Claridge's of Lady Anne Brennan, accompanied by her two sons and Miss Jean Peterson.

"And are you making a long stay in London?" enquired Madame de Varigny.

Lady Anne shook her head.

"No. We go back to Staple tomorrow."

The other's face fell.

"But how unfortunate! I shall then see nothing of my dear Moxa Peterson."

She seemed so distressed that Lady Anne's kind heart melted within her, albeit it accorded ill with her plans to increase the number of her party.

"We are going on to the theatre," she said impulsively. "If you have no other engagement, why not come with us? There will be plenty of room in our box."

Madame de Varigny professed herself enchanted. Curiously enough, she seemed to have no particular desire to draw Jean into anything in the nature of a private talk, but appeared quite content to take part in the general conversation, while her eyes rested speculatively now upon Jean, now upon Tormarin, as though they afforded her an abstract interest of some kind.

Even at the theatre, where from her corner seat she was able to envisage the other occupants of the box, she seemed almost as much interested in them as in the play that was being performed on the stage. Once, as Tormarin leaned forward and made some comment to Jean, their two pairs of eyes meeting in a look of mutual understanding of some small joke or other, the two of them smiled contentedly, as though the little playlet satisfied some inner questioning.

With the fall of the curtain at the end of the first act, she turned to Lady Anne, politely enthusiastic.

"But it is a charming play," she said. "It is no wonder the house is so full."

Her glance strayed carelessly over the body of the auditorium, then was suddenly caught and held. A minute later she touched Jean's arm.

"I think there is someone in the stalls trying to attract your attention," she observed quietly.

Even as she spoke, Nick too, became aware of the same fact.

"Hullo!" he exclaimed. "There's Geoffrey Burke down below. I didn't know he was in town."

Madame de Varigny found the effort to open her companions to this apparently innocent announcement distinctly interesting. It was as though a thrill of disconcerting consciousness ran through the other occupants of the box. Jean flushed suddenly and uncomfortably, and the dark, keen eyes were watching from behind the fringe of dusky lashes noted an almost imperceptible exchange of expression in each the faces of both Lady Anne and Tormarin. In neither case was the change altogether indicative of pleasure. Then, following quickly upon a bow of mutual recognition, the music of the orchestra suddenly ceased—the curtain went up for the second act.

Shall Our Monetary System Be Changed?

An Analysis By Major Strange Of Several Of The Proposals Made

There appear to be two dominant schools of thought regarding the present depression. One that considers that the currency causes have had much to do with the situation and the other that believes that money has had but little or nothing to do with it. Many proposals are being put forth by the first group for changes and modifications to be made in both national and international monetary and financial systems. Due to the variety and complexity of these proposals, and due to the intricate and whole question of national and international finance and currency, it is not to be wondered at that the public mind is somewhat confused with it all. We have received requests to endeavor to explain some of the suggestions that have been made. An attempt will be made, therefore, in this article to set out the substance of some of the proposals. First of all it might be well to review how the currencies of England, Canada, and the United States compare one with the other because the differences that exist between them are the basis of several of the proposals that have been made.

Until recently, the British sterling bank note could be exchanged on demand for gold at the rate of approximately 124 grains of gold for each pound note. The United States and the Canadian dollar could each be similarly exchanged for gold on demand at the rate of approximately 23 grains of gold for each dollar note. (The gold referred to is official standard gold—not pure gold.)

"We are going on to the theatre," she said impulsively. "If you have no other engagement, why not come with us? There will be plenty of room in our box." Madame de Varigny professed herself enchanted. Curiously enough, she seemed to have no particular desire to draw Jean into anything in the nature of a private talk, but appeared quite content to take part in the general conversation, while her eyes rested speculatively now upon Jean, now upon Tormarin, as though they afforded her an abstract interest of some kind. Up to quite recently, the number of persons or governments that desired to have a greater success of their notes and currency of the first-class nations, was practically negligible, so that their majorities the 40 per cent. of the gold behind notes was a safe covering. Due to the war and its aftermath, however, a decided lack of confidence in the nations began to manifest itself although this has been used after every large war in the past. The results of this lack of confidence was that a number of the large foreign holders of British bank notes would be legally quite entitled to do, that there would be insufficient gold to redeem all the paper notes issued.

Up to quite recently, the number of persons or governments that desired to have a greater success of their notes and currency of the first-class nations, was practically negligible, so that their majorities the 40 per cent. of the gold behind notes was a safe covering. Due to the war and its aftermath, however, a decided lack of confidence in the nations began to manifest itself although this has been used after every large war in the past. The results of this lack of confidence was that a number of the large foreign holders of British bank notes would be legally quite entitled to do, that there would be insufficient gold to redeem all the paper notes issued.

Naturally, it cannot be expected that a country's notes that are not backed up by gold or silver on demand can be as valuable as those of a country that is willing, at all times, to exchange its bank notes for gold. Of course, under the present monetary system where gold is generally speaking, the recognized international standard of value.

The English sterling pound note, therefore, fell on the international market of the world below the price of those paper notes of countries such as the United States and France that still remained on what is usually termed the full gold standard. The English pound fell from an exchange value of 48 American dollars down to an exchange value of only 3.65 dollars, which means, in other words, that the English sterling pound note, which used to be worth 124 grains of gold is, at this moment, only worth about 23 grains of gold. This amount of gold, by the way, can still be obtained for the British pound sterling by the means of changing sterling bank notes into American paper currency and then changing the American paper currency into gold. CANADIAN WOMEN FIND DUSTING DISTASTEFUL

Dust cloths going into discard; Unpleasant to use; a boiler to Wash

APPLEFORD WONDER PAPER HAS GREAT VOCUE

Of all household tasks, that of dusting is the least appealing to the majority of women.

However, this condition, like many another common task with housework, is undergoing radical change. In a great many Canadian houses the women are discarding dust cloths entirely, and are using Appleford Wonder Paper instead, because it actually duster—as it cleans—as it polishes, doing a better and much quicker job than the old dust cloth ever did.

This new, and extremely modern Wonder Paper, is made from clean, pure soft paper pulp, treated in a scientific way with a high-grade furniture polish; and absolutely free of any irritating or offensive odors.

Appleford Wonder Paper comes in handy packages, twenty-five large sheets for twenty-five cents. You crumple a sheet into a neat ball, and use it over the surface requiring attention. Then when one side is soiled or worn, turn the Wonder Paper inside out. After you have given a quick and lasting finish to furniture and woodwork, you can still use Wonder Paper on the floors, if you wish.

And when you are through, there's no old duster to shake out or wash. Throw the soiled Wonder Paper away and you've finished the most tiresome part of housework in half the time and with half the effort.

Wonder Paper is made by the makers of the famous P&G's Heavy Waxed Paper in the Green Box.

Didsbury Beats Olds, 6-4.

Didsbury's baseball team, assisted by three oldtimers, got the best of the Olds team at Olds on Monday night to the tune of 6-4.

It looked bad for Didsbury in the first inning, when Olds batted four runs, but Didsbury tightened up and held Olds scoreless the rest of the game.

Didsbury ran in three runs in the third and tied the game in the sixth with one run. "Rastus" Reiber came to bat in the eighth, and with two out, singled safely and scoring Wyman to break the tie. They capped another run in the ninth, making the score 6-4 in favor of Didsbury.

The oldtimers, Keith, Reiber and Lee showed that there is still some baseball in their systems, and Lee made a real comeback when he snagged a couple of difficult flies in the outfield. Ward Keith showed some of his oldtime speed and featured in double plays.

Bob Gooder pitched airtight ball, and after the first inning pitched a shout game.
